Charged in Killing of Trooper

BATESVILLE, Ark. (AP) — Jessie Ring, 31, of Batesville, a paroled convict, was charged with first-degree murder Sunday in the slaying of an Arkansas State Trooper.

Sheriff Paul Kelly of Independence County said Trooper Allen Bufford, 29, of Batesville, was killed early Sunday about three miles south of here on Arkansas 14 when he attempted to issue a speeding citation.

Bufford was commissioned as a trooper slightly more than a year ago.

Kelly said Bufford had stopped a car driven by Kathy Smart, 21, of Batesville when the shooting occurred. Kelly said one of the two men in the car with Miss Smart got out and circled the car.

Kelly said the assailant came up behind Bufford, placed a .22-caliber derringer at his head, and fired. Kelly said Bufford was struck by a second bullet after he fell to the ground.

Bufford died at a clinic in Batesville shortly after the shooting.

Kelly said Ring urged Miss Smart and the other passenger, Ott Garrett, to proceed on to Batesville. Kelly said Ring told them he would report finding the body after hitchhiking to Batesville.

Vietnam War: Will It Just Fade Away?

WASHINGTON (AP) — A day to come in the Vietnam war without a shot fired. No agreement on paper. Just silence. Such an end has been suggested by Senate Democratic leader Mike Mansfield and former Secretary of State Dean Rusk.

The Montana senator noted Henry Cabot Lodge, chief U.S. negotiator at Paris, and others, have before observed the war might fade away with a formal settlement at the conference table.

Unless Hanoi ceases its intransigence at Paris, Mansfield said it is possible there never will be any negotiated ceasefire.

The relative lull in the fighting now could be interpreted as the beginning of such a process, Mansfield said. He has been told that there has been no significant infiltration from the North in four months, he said.

However, he said, no one on this side knows exactly what this means.

Rusk talked Sunday of a 50 per cent chance the war may be "withering away . . . We've had other lulls in the past that were succeeded by intensive activity. I don't know if the present lull is part of the process of withering away. I would hope it is."

Rusk spoke on the ABC program "Issues and Answers."

Meanwhile, U.S. combat tactics have changed to cope with guerrilla level activity by the enemy, said Defense Secretary Melvin R. Laird. Should major enemy attacks resume American forces will respond in kind.

Laird was interviewed on the CBS program "Face the Nation."

Laird added that though plans have been made for further troop withdrawals, this does not have to come about. It depends on the enemy. "There are many alternatives," he said.

"The President has expressed the hope that we can continue withdrawals. I share this but there is a difference between hope, planning and ultimate decision," Laird said.

Mansfield, commenting along this line, said, "It seems to me that if the stalemate continues, President Nixon will have two choices."

"He can either step up the war, or he can order a gradual pullout of American troops, as the process of strengthening the South Vietnamese army goes ahead."

"From what I know of the situation, the President is not day in the slaying of an Arkansas State Trooper."

Ousting of Air Chief Asked

By BURL OSBORNE

Associated Press Writer

DENVER (AP) — The threat

of mass resignations by the nation's air traffic controllers

might be eased by the resignation of Administrator John H. Shaffer of the Federal Aviation Administration, leaders of a controllers' organization say.

"We reluctantly conclude that your resignation would be in the public interest," officers and directors of the Professional Air Traffic Controllers Organization said

Sunday night in a 20-page letter they sent to Shaffer over the FAA's own communications facilities.

It was the latest volley in a running dispute over demands

by PATCO for more controllers

and better equipment to control

air traffic patterns more safely.

The letter, drafted during a four-hour meeting here Sunday,

accused Shaffer of breaking an agreement not to punish controllers

who reported sick during an air traffic slowdown last month.

The controllers organization,

which claims to represent 7,800

of 8,550 men engaged in actual air traffic control, said Shaffer's

office has pursued a policy of "deliberate antagonism."

Attorney F. Lee Bailey, now

the acting executive director of PATCO read the letter to a meeting of Denver-area controllers,

their wives, and newsmen.

The letter said PATCO will not exercise its threat of mass

resignations "unless every possible alternative has been explored

and exhausted."

Bailey said resignations that

PATCO is holding in trust include

300 each from New York and Cleveland; 150 in Chicago; 125

in Miami; 164 in Denver; 100

in Boston; 90 in Oakland, Calif.;

80 in Kansas City and 75 in Honolulu.

A spokesman said more than 4,000 signed resignations have been received altogether, and more are coming in.

These include enough controllers

in enough critical centers to shut down the nation's air traffic

system in the event the resignations

are made effective, Wayne J. Smith of PATCO's

Washington, D.C., office, told newsmen.

The letter also included 27 requests that PATCO said the FAA could meet now, without legislation or action by other agencies.

The list included a 90-day moratorium on suspensions, ordered as a result of the June slowdown, to provide time for negotiation as an alternative to grievance procedure.

Bailey said PATCO is setting

no deadlines on its requests, but a week would be a reasonable period of waiting for response

"in hard language."

Liberals Nonchalant on Kennedy

By HARRY KELLY

Associated Press Writer

DENVER, Colo. (AP) — The

foot soldiers and captains of the

New Politics who fought the 1968 campaigns under the Mc-

Carthy and Kennedy banners

are taking their leaders' troubles

with a shrug.

"If McCarthy isn't there and

Ted Kennedy goes down the drain," said one, "there will be someone else when the time comes. We are issue-oriented.

We aren't hero-oriented."

This appeared to be the view of many of the more than 400

members of the New Democratic Coalition — most of whom were ardent supporters of Mc-Carthy and the late Robert F.

Kennedy — who gathered at a

Western States weekend meeting to discuss racism, the ABM and politics. Many arrived in cars still bearing the McCarthy daisy decal and the Kennedy bumper sticker, as well as the more recent liberal battle cry:

"The ABM is an Edsel."

Some of those arriving early

Friday crowded into a motel room to listen in silence, barely moving, as Sen. Edward M.

Kennedy told of the events around the drowning of a pretty secretary.

About halfway through, a young man with a neat beard

who rang doorbells for Mc-Carthy last year but said he would have voted for Ted Kennedy in 1972, shook his head and walked out.

"I think he's had it," he said afterward. "It may be unfair,

but I think that's the way it is."

His was not a consensus however of those who lounged

around the swimming pool or took a dip between panel sessions and got together with old friends from 1968.

Curtis Gans, McCarthy's

tough young organizer from 1968, was there in shirt sleeves,

drinking can after can of pop

and talking about reform and how McCarthy would have defeated Richard Nixon in 1968 if he had been nominated.

Now McCarthy has reaffirmed his decision not to seek re-election as senator from Minnesota. "It would be very unhappy if Sen. McCarthy retired from public life," Gans said.

Gans doesn't think Kennedy's future as a presidential possibility has been destroyed. "I think people should be judged on their public record, not on their priate lives . . . Anyway, in politics it depends on the time."

Thomas Bradley, the tall

black city councilman from Los Angeles who was defeated for mayor, said he agreed. Ted

Kennedy, he said, is "one of the finest candidates the Democratic party has to offer" and he was sure Kennedy would be a presidential candidate sometime. Maybe even in 1972.

Ted Warshafsky, who was co-chairman of the McCarthy primary campaign in Wisconsin and a leader of that state's rebellious delegation at the Democratic Convention, said Kennedy's television statement had an impact at his home:

"My wife said, 'My God, that was a beautiful speech! My daughter was near tears . . . I think Kennedy's private life is his own. But the thing they will throw against him, fair or not fair, is that he cracked under pressure. They are going to take those words of his, perhaps un-

Television and Radio

By JERRY BUCK
AP Television-Radio Writer
HOLLYWOOD (AP)—The incidence of violence in the new television season will be down, but it's a long way from out. There's not a new Western in the upcoming season. The only new police show is one of three parts of NBC's "Bold Ones" and will be seen only every third week.

There are more situation comedies than ever and a bumper crop of new musical variety shows.

Still, nearly a third of the prime time schedule will be occupied by action-adventure series and Westerns. There will be eight movies—ABC is adding a "Movie of the Week" of original productions—and so on in could fit into the action category.

The networks began an effort last year after the assassination of Sen. Robert F. Kennedy to cut down excessive violence. Their efforts didn't become apparent until about midseason, and this year they promise the results will be much in evidence. "The manner in which we react to violence is important," said Cy Chermak, youthful executive producer of "Ironside" and the "New Doctors" segment of "The Bold Ones." "Someone should hold up a mirror to producers to show them they've got a deeper responsibility than to entertain," he said. "But on the other hand, when you have someone afraid to put in a slap in the face, that's ridiculous. That's not violence."

Bruce Geller, creator of "Mission: Impossible" and "Manix," said, "I'd like to show a real fight, but that's violence. I think violence can be attractive if handled in a glamorized way."

It seems unlikely that violence will disappear from the homescreen. Its success in audience-building is well known and it's too handy a plot device to ignore.

Robert C. Dennis, a leading free lance writer who's turned out nearly 500 scripts, said, "A few years ago we had another anti-violence drive. And I walked onto the lot and got chewed out for now having enough violence. I suspect it's going to be the same thing here. They say there's not going to be any violence, but when you turn your script in they start telling you to put in more action."

HELP DAN Shows Kids Drink, Drug Danger

By AILEEN SNODDY
NEW YORK — (NEA) — Education in the danger of drugs and alcohol starts at the grade school level in Anchorage, Alaska.

Thanks to Mrs. Edrell Annette Coleman, of Ft. Wainwright, Alaska, classes have been started in the fifth and sixth grades to acquaint children with the problems of drugs, alcohol and narcotics — Mrs. Coleman lumps them under one heading of DAN and precedes it with HELP (Help Educated Little People).

For her experimental work, Mrs. Coleman has been named the 1969 Military Wife of the Year. Her idea, instituted at the Chena Elementary School, has attracted national interest.

"We were aware of the drug problems facing base children and those who went to public schools. I felt we could reach a child at a younger age than the early teens and do some good."

She feels educating young children to the use and abuse of drugs at the elementary level is "the modern way to approach children." Police in Anchorage agree and are quite helpful, she says.

HELP DAN is a club-type program with the pupils acting as their own officers.

"There are five teachers involved at Chena but we felt we were not as trained or as knowledgeable as professionals."

To fill in gaps, "We invite doctors, FBI agents, members of Alcoholics Anonymous, those from the Cancer Society to speak at weekly club meetings," she explained. Parents may come and sit at the back of the classroom and Mrs. Coleman scoured government and industrial sources for free films and literature. From this the HELP DAN Alaska unit built a bibliography for others to use.

Next year the club plans to expand to include fourth-grade pupils. Meanwhile, the youngsters have traveled to other schools in the area, with their own "road show" and keep the pros hopping with their incisive questions.

"We tend to underestimate children," Mrs. Coleman, a teacher for 16 years, believes. "How can they grasp a problem if we don't teach them? The children always ask, 'Why do adults smoke or take drugs?' We tell them their parents who started smoking years ago didn't have the information we have today. We don't tell children they can't smoke, drink, take drugs. We try to educate them and say, 'You make a decision.'"

She adds children want to make decisions and have the feeling of being independent.

Probably the most dramatic bit of the HELP DAN

School Sweaters by the Dozen

By JUDY LOVE

The postman brings me a hefty sack of mail this time of year, filled with requests for knitting instructions in young sizes. This is the season when mothers—and doting grandmothers, too—knit for September's school belles.

Sweaters are the single most popular item. You knitters ask for cardigans, pull-overs, V-necks, turtle-necks and what have you.

To keep little girls happy and keep their moms busily knitting, I've gathered together a group of sweaters in a good choice of styles and yarns. The six toppers I'm featuring today actually represent a dozen different styles that you can make—merely by changing the neckline or the length of a sleeve. Instructions call for Spinnery yarns in a choice of three weights from light to heavy, plus a choice of yarns within each weight category. If it's diversity you're looking for, your search is over.

All sweaters with long or short sleeves feature smartly tailored set-in detailing, and the instructions are given for sizes 4-12.

Dear Judy: I'd like to add pompons to several throw pillows. I understand there are gadgets for making pompons, but is there a way I can make them on my own? —B.N.

Dear B.N.: The plastic pompon-makers are inexpensive and quite easy to use, but many needleworkers take satisfaction in the do-it-yourself approach. And, it's certainly easy enough. Just cut out two cardboard circles to the size you want, and make a quarter-inch hole in the exact center of each circle. Now, wind a double strand of yarn all around the wheel, from the hole over the outer edge. Use a blunt needle to help wind. When the wheel is finally covered, insert scissors between the circles and cut the yarn at the outer edge. Take a new piece of yarn and wind it around the strands right at the center. Pull it tightly and knot. Use the ends of this yarn to attach the pompon to your pillow. Remove the cardboards by cutting them. —Judy

SHOULD "THAT PROFESSION" BE LEGALIZED?

Dear Helen: I read a news-service article recently about legal prostitution in Nevada. This amazed me as I didn't think the oldest profession was legal anywhere in the United States. The article indicated there was no problem, and the townspeople in these rural areas rather approved of the idea, as the girls have regular medical check-ups, and there seems to be a certain respectability in their business now.

Not long before this, a judge in California came out publicly in favor of legalized prostitution inasmuch, he said, as it was here to stay, so why not face the fact honestly and eliminate a great deal of disease, jail sentences, etc.?

At first this shocked me, but the more I think about it, the more sense it makes. Why fight a losing battle? And, besides, if we went back to the lavish, red plush setting, maybe fewer "reluctant" girls would get positioned. —T.R.

Dear T: "If you can't fight it, legalize it!" has been used on every "No-no" from pot to perversion.

Seems to me that even with required licenses, there would still be more free-lancers than occupants of red plush houses. Witness the bar-belles in Nevada!

Comments, any one? —H.

to be loving and sexy. Always ready to do whatever I suggested, she liked to talk, but I didn't listen very well. Looking back, I now realize I missed most of the change in her. For I downgraded her, compared her unfavorably with other women, often asked, "What did I ever see in YOU?" when we had fights. Yes, we fought in those days, as well as loved — because we cared. But I didn't show my wife I cared enough. I was tired after work, so I made excuses when she wanted to go out. I was sarcastic and critical. When she took on some of my "endearing" qualities, I felt hurt, so I turned to a girl at the office. I excused myself by saying my wife didn't love me. The affair didn't last long, but I guess this was the last straw at home. Now, as I say, we're polite strangers, going our separate ways and never saying anything to each other that really means anything. Suppose it's too late for us, but I hope some of these people who don't work at their marriage will read and take warning. If you'd fight with your mate, fight fair. Treat her as an equal. And, above all, give her compliments — appreciate her, show you love her. —ONE WHO FOUND OUT TOO LATE

Dear One: It isn't too late — not if you show your wife this letter. I doubt that you are as entirely to blame as you think — and I'll bet your wife agrees with me, after you start communicating again! —H.

St. Louis Advances in National

By HAL BOCK

Associated Press Sports Writer Gary Geiger has been through the medical mill and Rico Carthy's health chart would make interesting reading for any MD. But they hardly resembled invalids to the Philadelphia Phillies and Montreal Expos.

Geiger stroked the game-winning pinch hit in the fifth inning, giving Houston a 3-2 decision over the Phillies. Sunday and Carthy's two-run homer snatched a 1-1 tie and ignited a seven-run Atlanta explosion in the seventh inning that gave the Braves an 8-2 victory over the Expos.

In other National League games Sunday, Cincinnati ripped New York 6-3, Los Angeles tripped Chicago 6-2, Pittsburgh clipped San Diego 4-1 and St. Louis routed San Francisco 6-2.

In the American League, Baltimore bombed Chicago 17-0, California edged New York 5-4, Oakland whacked Washington 7-2, Minnesota nipped Cleveland 6-7, Kansas City shelled Detroit 7-2 and Boston defeated Seattle 5-3 in 20 innings.

Geiger missed one whole season because of stomach ulcers and the better part of the another because of a collapsed lung. Still, he has swung the bat well enough in parts of 10 big league seasons to qualify as a handy guy to have on the bench and that's what the Astros had in mind when they drafted him from the St. Louis organization last winter.

Geiger showed how handy he could be when he delivered the game winning hit against the Phillies Sunday. Joe Morgan had opened the Astros' 11th with a pinch double and reached third on two outs and a pair of intentional walks. Then Geiger drilled his winning hit.

It was only the 26th hit this season for Geiger but he has made them count, driving in 16 runs and also scoring 16.

Carthy, who missed all of last season because of tuberculosis, continued his comeback with his seventh homer of the year. Reduced to a part-time performer, Rico has batted .377 to 51 games for the Braves this season.

His shot against Montreal's Steve Renko jolted the rookie and the Braves went on to score five more runs in the inning to whip the Expos.

Until Carthy connected Renko, and Atlanta's Jim Britton had matched two-hitters. Clete Boyer also homered for the Braves, who remained one game ahead of Los Angeles, two up on San Francisco and 3½ in front of Cincinnati in the tight West Division race.

The Dodgers beat Ferguson Jenkins for the second time in three days, kaying the Cubes' ace in the fifth inning after tagging him for 10 hits. Jenkins also lost Friday's game when he was forced to leave after being struck on his pitching thumb by a line drive.

Bill Sudakis drove in two runs with a homer and sacrifice fly and added a key single as Don Drysdale, struggling with a sore shoulder, won his fifth game. Ron Santo and Billy Williams homered for the Cubs.

The Giants lost ground with St. Louis winning its 15th in the last 20 starts. The Cards bunched five runs in the second inning and Mike Torrez coasted to the victory.

Vada Pinson drove in two of the runs with a double and extended his hitting streak to 18 straight games.

The Reds kept pace with the Braves by knocking off New York. Tony Perez hammered his 25th homer and third in the last four days while Gerry Arrigo won his first game of the season. Roberto Clemente ripped four straight singles, driving in one run and scoring two to lead Pittsburgh past San Diego. Willie Stargell walloped a triple and home run for the Pirates and Jim Bunning won his ninth game with late help from Bob Moose.

All-Stars Prep for N.Y. Jets

By JOE MOOSHIL

Associated Press Sports Writer CHICAGO (AP) — The College All Stars, with a taste of professional football under their helmets, began tapering off today for their meeting with the New York Jets Friday night in Soldier Field.

The mid-summer football classic, featuring Jet quarterback Joe Namath, might draw in the vicinity of 80,000.

The All-Stars climaxed their drills Saturday in a scrimmage with the St. Louis Cardinals of the National Football League and came off with a 6-0 defeat in a game which saw each team begin six series of plays from its own 30-yard line.

A 43-yard pass from Charley Johnson to Johnny Roland set up a three-yard scoring by Willie Crenshaw for the game's only score.

"We were pretty good on defense and I liked the way the secondary was knocking down passes," said Otto Graham, head coach of the All-Stars.

Graham, after a three-year tenure as head coach of the Washington Redskins, is back at the helm for the collegians.

He has had experience in coaching All-Star victories. Under Graham, the All-Stars posted their last two triumphs against the professionals champions by downing Green Bay 20-17 in 1963 and Detroit 35-19 in 1958.

Nevertheless, the All-Stars figure to be something like two touchdown underdogs to the Jets and Broadway Joe, rulers of all professional football following last season's shocking 16-7 triumph over the Baltimore Colts.

That decision enabled the Jets to become the first American Football League team to qualify for the All Star Game in the 36th renewal of the classic which began back in 1934.

Graham was highly pleased with the All-Star performance against the Cardinals. "The main thing about this scrimmage was to get on the same field with a pro club," he said.

"Now the All-Stars know they can knock heads with the pros, and stay with them in the important departments," said Graham.

Reports from Hempstead, N.Y., where the Jets are training found Namath used sparingly in a Friday night scrimmage. Broadway Joe completed four of 10 passes for 73 yards and one touchdown while Babe Parilli, Namath's replacement, completed 20 of 28 for 208 yards and two touchdowns.

Baltimore Smashes Chi by 17 to 0

Rick Reichardt is 20 home runs short of Lefty Phillips' great expectations—and a couple of big jumps ahead of the other California Angels.

Reichardt, the former $175,000 bonus baby who has never quite fulfilled his slugging potential for the Angels, drove in all the California runs with a pair of homers Sunday in a 6-4 victory over the New York Yankees.

His three-run wallop in the third inning was the first homer for California against Yankee pitching in 10 games this season. And his deciding 10th homer of the year, a two-run shot in the fifth marked the first time in 1969 an Angel has connected twice in one game.

"Reichardt should be hitting 30 home runs a year," said Angels Manager Phillips. "He works awful hard, but he has a greater potential than he's shown."

"It's a question now of learning to handle various pitchers," said Reichardt, who hit 21 homers a year ago and leads the powder-puff Angels in batting this season with a .276 mark. "I'm trying to get a little more elevation on the ball."

"Home runs are irrevocable. Once the ball is gone, they can't take those runs away from you."

While Reichardt personally battered the Yankees, Baltimore's high-flying Orioles went on a 20-hit rampage and smashed the Chicago White Sox 17-0. Boston struggled past Seattle 5-3 in a 20-inning marathon, longest game in the majors this season. Minnesota topped Cleveland 8-7; Oakland trimmed Washington 7-2 and Kansas City defeated Detroit 7-2 in other American League action.

In the National League, Los Angeles downed the Chicago Cubs 6-2; Cincinnati stopped the New York Mets 6-3; Atlanta ripped Montreal 8-2; St. Louis beat San Francisco 6-2; Pittsburgh took San Diego 4-1 and Houston shaded Philadelphia 3-2 in 11 innings.

Rookie reliever Ken Tatum replaced Angels starter George Brunet after Horace Clarke sent the Angels ahead 2-0 with a second-inning double and pitched two-hit ball for 6 1-3 innings to earn his third victory without a loss. Rudy May came on in the ninth to get the last three outs.

Bill Robinson's third-inning homer was the first hit off Tatum in 21 appearances since the Angels recalled him from the minors on May 28. He has recorded seven saves and has an 0.98 earned run average.

Frank Robinson drilled his 24th and 25th homers and knocked in five runs, leading the Orioles' barrage against four Chicago pitchers. Winner Jim Hardin, who tossed a two-hitter, poled a three-run homer, Boog Powell homered with one aboard and Mark Belanger rapped four hits for the runaway East Division leaders.

Joe Lahoud's two-run homer in the 20th cracked a 2-2 tie at Seattle and the Red Sox added another run before the Pilots' Tommy Harper closed the gap with a homer in the bottom half. Jim Lonborg, the eighth Boston hurler, picked up his seventh victory in 10 decisions in the marath duel, which lasted 5 hours and 52 minutes.

Leo Cardenas' three-run homer in the sixth wiped out a 5-2 Cleveland lead and Harmon Killebrew capped a three-run seventh with a double for his 94th and 95th RBI of the year as the Twins outlasted the Indians.

Cleveland knocked out Dave Boswell in a five-run second-inning burst and made it close on Chuck Hinton's two-run pinch homer in the eighth.

Danny Cater slammed a two-run homer in the first inning and sent home two more runs with a fifth-inning single, leading Oakland past the Senators. Lew Krausse, 6-4, coasted to his fourth straight victory.

Rookie Buck Martinez' three-run first-inning homer launched the Royals' attack against Detroit, helping rookie Jim Rooker gain the pitching decision with relief help from Moe Drabowsky.

Babe Ruth to Play Paragould
Hope's Babe Ruth all stars downed Malvern last night 7-1 in a closeout victory that sends them to the State Tournament today to play Paragould at 3 p.m. in Paragould.

The little league leaves today at 1 p.m. for McGehee to play Crossett at 7:15 p.m.

Betsy Rawls Wins LPGA Championship

By SHEILA MORAN

Associated Press Sports Writer

KIAMESHA LAKE, N.Y. (AP) — Betsy Rawls, who snapped her putting slump in a brilliant surge to run away with the $36,000 LPGA Championship, wishes she could give Arnold Palmer her secret.

"I wish I could help him," she said after a brilliant 71 Sunday which gave her the richest title in women's golf by a four stroke margin.

"I'd had putting problems for the past two years because of age as much as anything else, and began to come out of it three months ago when I switched from a wrist stroke to a shoulder stroke. Now, I think I've got the thing licked."

At 41, Miss Rawls is the oldest ever to win this championship, the richest in women's golf, with a $250 first prize. Louise Suggs was 33 when she won it in 1957.

Betsy surged in from three strokes back and showed the youngsters a thing or two as she tamed the 6,306-yard, par 73 Concord Club championship course, which is nicknamed The Monster. She finished with a 72-hole total of 293 after earlier rounds of 71, 72 and 79.

Miss Rawls caught third-round leaders Carol Mann and Marlene Hagge on the eighth hole and went in front to stay at the 10th. Miss Mann zoomed to 78 and a tie for second with Sue Berning, who shot 79. They each shot 3,500 for their 297 finish, four shots back.

Mrs. Hagge, whose tee shots strayed into the water and the rough, also shot 79 for fourth place at 298. She was followed by Muriel Lindstrom, 75 for 299; leading money winner Kathy Whitworth and Donna Caponi, both 76 for 300 and Sandra Palmer 73 for 301.

Miss Rawls, who has won virtually every major title, including four U.S. Opens and the LPGA in 1959 in a brilliant 18-year career, made few mistakes over the fickle layout, still wet from a Saturday rainstorm. She hit 16 greens, never went over par and posted two birdies with putts of 15 and 55 feet.

Her victory Sunday, her 50th, increased her 1969 earnings to more than $13,000, ninth on the money list and upped her career earnings to more than $232,000, third on the all time list behind Mickey Wright and Miss Whitworth.

Exhibition Time for Grid Pros

By ROBERT MOORE
Associated Press Sports Writer

Pro football, its off-season punctuated with squabbles over the players' pension and Joe Namath's fuss with Commissioner Pete Rozelle over his New York night spot, moves in this week to grab some of the sports spotlight from baseball in six curtain-raising exhibition games.

The highlight of the openers will be played Friday night in Chicago between the Namath-quarterbacked New York Jets and the College All-Stars.

The other games, all Saturday night:

Baltimore at San Diego.
Minnesota vs. Miami at Tampa, Fla.

Chicago at Washington.
Buffalo at Houston.
Kansas City vs. Oakland at Birmingham, Ala.

Namath will appear against the All-Stars with only two weeks practice. He spent the first weeks of the Jets' workouts in retirement after he elected June 6 to quit football rather than bow to Rozelle's ultimatum that he sell his East Side restaurant or face suspension.

Rozelle charged that Namath's Bachelors III was being frequented by questionable characters.

After six weeks of squabbling, Namath finally bowed to the pressure and his deeply-imbedded desire to play football, agreed to sell his interest in the restaurant, shook hands with Rozelle and joined the Jets.

Some 80,000 spectators may invade Chicago's Soldier Field anxious to see Namath and see if he still possesses the aerial wizardry that last January floored the Baltimore Colts and gave the Super Bowl crown to the Jets.

Saturday's games will produce the first look at new Coach Vince Lombardi's version of the Washington Redskins. Lombardi, who masterminded the Green Bay Packers to more honors than most people can recall, has taken over the Redskins after a year's absence from the coaching ranks.

The Redskins hope to have strengthened their running game with the acquisition Sunday from New Orleans of Randy Schultz. They gave up an undisclosed 1970 draft choice.

Miami's Dolphins tuned up Sunday for their game with Minnesota with a game-type scrimmage in which rookie line-backer Dale McCullers of Florida State rambled 103 yards with an intercepted pass. The interception touched off an 18-9 victory for the defensive unit.

Baltimore, still smarting from its defeat by the Jets, will be facing another American Football League team in San Diego's Chargers.

The Buffalo-Houston and Kansas City-Oakland games may provide a pretty fair preview of what's ahead in the AFL this season.

Quarantined Spacemen Keep Humor

By HOWARD BENEDICT

AP Aerospace Writer

SPACE CENTER, Houston (AP) — Apollo 11's astronauts discussed the lunar orbit phase of their historic moon landing mission during a second day of de-briefings today.

With tape recorders catching every word, the spacemen recalled for experts the injection into moon orbit and the preparations for the descent to the surface on July 20 by Neil A. Armstrong and Edwin E. Aldrin Jr.

Michael Collins told of his lonely vigil in orbit while his companions were on the surface for more than 21 hours.

The emphasis was on systems performance.

The 10-day de-briefing period is being held simultaneously with the astronauts' quarantine, scheduled to last two more weeks.

Two men who rode in a quarantine van that transported the astronauts from the Pacific to Houston reported that during those 2½ days the spacemen joked about purple rocks and discussed the perfection of their mission and the ease of working in the lunar environment.

Dr. William Carpenter and engineer John Hirasaki also reported they and the astronauts made direct contact with black powdery moon dust that gathered on the spacemen's suits.

Astronauts Neil A. Armstrong, Edwin E. Aldrin Jr. and Michael Collins reached Houston early Sunday and immediately transferred from the van

'Exile,' Say Blacks in Congress

By G. DAVID WALLACE

WASHINGTON (AP) — Several black congressmen indicate they are beginning to see themselves as a kind of government-in-exile because they say President Nixon has abdicated his responsibilities to the nation's minorities.

"In this administration, the

to quarantine quarters at the lunar receiving laboratory.

They are being treated as though they were contaminated by moon organisms, although scientists doubt that lunar germs exist.

with them are 14 other persons—doctors, technical experts, stewards and a cook.

They are scheduled for release Aug. 11 if they develop no illness and if study of the rocks they collected shows nothing harmful.

Carpenter and Hirasaki discussed the van trip with newsmen Sunday night from behind a sealed window.

"In their conversations," Hirasaki said, "Collins was especially impressed by the remarkable perfection of the whole mission—how well the machines worked, the time-line. All three were amazed at the perfection."

Hirasaki said Collins, who orbited the moon in the command ship while Armstrong and Aldrin walked the surface, asked his companions about the texture of the surface and some of the things they saw.

Said Carpenter: "They discussed the colors, materials, and so forth. Their reaction to working in the one-sixth lunar gravity field was that it was very comfortable. They found they could get around more easily than in zero G."

Zero gravity is weightlessness, such as astronauts experience in orbit.

"They reported they had a better sense of direction in one-sixth G. On the moon objects would settle down and wouldn't float off as in zero G, so they wouldn't have to look around for them," Carpenter added.

Hirasaki said there was a lot of light-hearted talk about the purple rock Aldrin reported sighting on the moon.

"It's become quite a joke among the astronauts," he said. "They kept saying such a thing was very scarce and everytime they saw a rock or particle someone would ask if there was anything purple there."

Carpenter and Hirasaki said they touched the black moon powder when they opened a bag to take medical swabbings from the space suits. The astronauts also had touched the fine powder in packing the suits.

"We wiped it off and cleaned our hands," Hirasaki said.

Both men said it felt like talcum powder, but had a slight granularity.

Rocks returned by the astronauts also were coated with the powder. Tests are being conducted to determine its composition.

Carpenter reported the astronauts "remained absolutely symptom-free" and that he had given them no medication since they returned to earth Thursday.

The spacemen began an extensive debriefing Sunday, discussing the mission with experts.

The astronauts' families visited them Sunday, but a thick window separated them. They spoke over microphones.

demands of the poor, of minorities—and of black people in particular—are falling on deaf, insensitive ears," said Rep. William Clay, D-Mo.

"It is quite evident that we will have to have our own flag over the next three years—implant it on our grounds and fight to hold it. Nothing short of individual concern can prevent a total repression of minorities."

Clay's remarks came in material recently inserted in the Congressional Record.

Joining Clay were Reps. Louis Stokes of Ohio, John Conyers Jr., of Michigan and Shirley Chisholm of New York, all Democrats. Also, the office of Rep. Charles C. Diggs Jr., D-Mich., said he is preparing a similar statement for House delivery.

"As for myself, any hope of reporting to black America that the federal government will move with more commitment or more speed to overcoming the inequality in this country is rapidly fading," said Conyers.

"It seems to me that if the first six months of this administration is any criteria of what the poor, the uneducated and the black citizen of this nation can expect, then an opportunity for greatness will have eluded this President," said Stokes.

"It's all downhill in the nation's capital—priorities are sadly confused while this President acts on his obvious decision to accommodate conservatives and southerners," said Clay.

Mrs. Chisholm urged help for "our new-style—our revolutionary politicians."

Speaking to an Urban League convention meeting in Washington Sunday, Mrs. Chisholm said "The time is not far away when black people, Indians, Mexican Americans and other Spanish-speaking Americans, young white people, poor white people and old white people will force the political robber-baron of this country up against the wall."

Clay, Stokes and Conyers listed their grievances with the Nixon administration:

—The absence of blacks or the Cabinet.

—Giving "five southern school" districts—which had disregarded the law of the land since 1554—extra time to meet federal standards.

—The award of $9.4 million in defense contracts to three southern textile mills accused of discrimination.

—The replacement of Equal Employment Opportunity Commission Chairman Clifford Alexander with another Negro, William H. Brown III, the day after Senate Republican Leader Everett M. Dirksen attacked Alexander for "harassment of businessmen."

—The Justice Department recommendation that the 1965 Voting Rights Act covering seven southern states be replaced by legislation covering all 50 states.

—The closing of 59 of the 109 Job Corps centers.

—The budget recommendation to trim education spending to $3.2 billion—a $400 million cut.

—Dismantling of the Office of Economic Opportunity and the appointment as director of Donald E. Rumsfeld, "a former congressman who represented a district where the average income was $9,300—a man who knows little about poverty, a man who voted against the original Economic Opportunity Act."

May Answer Question of Life on Mars

PASADENA, Calif. (AP) —

Scientists expect to begin receiving Tuesday night their best data ever on a centuries-old puzzle: Does life exist on Mars?

Mariner 6, one of two spacecraft zooming toward the mysterious red planet after a five-month journey, is to begin taking television pictures at 128 a.m. Tuesday while 771,500 miles away from Mars. More pictures will be taken every 37 minutes over the next 19 hours, and then all 33 far-encounter pictures will be played back to earth starting at 9:35 p.m. EDT Tuesday. The playback will take two hours 52 minutes.

Mars is nearly 50 million miles from earth.

By the time Mariner 6 flies within 2,000 miles of Mars on Wednesday, scientists hope it will have sent up to 74 pictures, some detailed enough to pick out possible ruins, canals or geometric patterns.

Mariner 7, racing along a more equatorial Mars route, is to take the first of its 114 pictures Friday from 1.14 million miles away and make a 2,000-mile pass on Monday night, Aug. 4.

The closest pictures will show features as small as 900 feet across.

The Mars probes were sent off by the Jet Propulsion Laboratory here for the National Aeronautics and Space Administration.

Dr. Robert B. Leighton, California Institute of Technology physicist-astronomer and chief investigator for the project, said there was little chance of seeing earth-like features on Mars.

Photos taken on the Mariner 4 flight in 1965 showed a bleak, crater-pocked surface resembling that of the moon. No mountain chains, ocean basins or continents appeared.

The cameras and scientific instruments on Mariners 6 and 7 are intended to measure temperatures, pressures and atmospheric densities, and seek details of the planet's polar caps, clouds, canal-like lines and other surface features.

Dr. Norman H. Horowitz, another investigator, said that although the possibility of life on Mars is remote, there is a chance the planet is in a primitive form, comparable to earth millions of years ago.

Scientists believe that the Martian polar caps that retreat in the warm seasons are frozen carbon dioxide, much colder than frozen water.

The Mariner pictures will be taken as the planet's southern hemisphere begins its spring season. Scientists hope to be able to determine whether the spring and summer darkening areas are vegetation, some form of algae, or only rocks that change color.

Assassin Suspect Held in Manila

MANILA (AP) — The Manila Chronicle said today a man killed in a gun battle with police just before President Nixon arrived here had been in police custody just four hours previous to the shooting. Police link the man to a possible assassination plot.

They denied the Chronicle story, which quoted the dead man's relatives.

A spokesman said the Police Department stands by its original account of having come upon a jeepload of men before dawn Saturday near a hotel which Nixon was to visit Saturday night.

Police said the men opened fire on a police patrol car, the police returned the fire and a man tumbled dead into the street. The others escaped.

On the body, police said, was a homemade pistol and a roughly drawn sketch of the hotel and surroundings with markings that could be connected with Nixon's visit.

There was "no real evidence" of a plot against Nixon, police said, but added "you could surmise there was."

A police investigator said the dead man was believed to be a member of a Communist-led Huk guerrilla assassination team.

The Chronicle said in its front-page story that the dead suspect, Alberto Medina, was picked up by police after the gun battle between them.

Quoting relatives of Medina, the newspaper said he was carrying a passport after drinking "hard" early Friday evening and did not know what a group of policemen came to his house and took him away.

"That was the last time he was seen alive," the Chronicle said.

The police spokesman said the story was "a without-basis rumormongering" and a "smear attempt" by the newspaper. He added that the police commander had personally investigated the case and commended the police involved for "thwarting a possibly very serious crime."

Nixon left the Philippines Sunday. Aides said he had not heard the report of the plot on his life.

HOPE NEWSPAPER HISTORY:
The 1929 consolidation joined the two principal newspaper lines dating back to within five years of Hope's incorporation in 1875.

1899 — Star of Hope founded as a weekly by Claude Mc-Corkle; converted to an evening daily by his son, Ed. McCorkle, publishing until the 1929 consolidation.

The opposition line:
1880 — Hope News founded by Lowry Brothers.

1883 — Sold to Withers & Johnson, name changed to Hope Telegraph.

1883 — Later in same year resold to Claude McCorkle and renamed Hope Mercury.

1884 — Sold to James H. Betts, who named it Hope Gazette, under which name it was published continuously until 1922, published by Betts, J.L., Tullis, and Col. W.W.
Folsom the last-named dying in 1916.

1916 — Purkins & Gates bought the weekly Gazette and made it a companion paper to their new daily, Arkansas Evening Herald
— but both papers suspended in 1922.

1926 — Plant was revived by Curtis Cannon as the weekly
Hempstead County Review.

1927 — Cannon sold plant to D.A. Gean, who established the morning Hope Daily Press.

1929 — C. E. Palmer and A.H.
Washburn consolidated The Star and the Press as Hope Star, with Palmer as president and Washburn secretary-treasurer.

1957 — Following Mr. Palmer's death Mrs. Palmer became president.

1969 — With Mrs. Palmer's retirement from Star Publishing Co. Washburn became 76 per cent owner and president — balance 24 per cent being held by Texarkana Newspapers, Inc.

Q—My son, 11, was found to have a slightly curved be corrected?

A—A curvature not dis-

not serious. A brace or body cast will correct it if your doctor thinks any treatment is necessary.

Oswald: "Jeff Rubens' new book, entitled 'The Secrets of Winning Bridge,' discusses general principles of bidding and play at rubber bridge and all forms of duplicate. He does not try to push any particular bidding methods but only those general principles that apply in all bidding systems."

Jim: "It is not a book designed for columnists, since he usually shows just two hands and doesn't tell you what the opponents hold."

Oswald: "He also doesn't bother with the bidding when he is discussing a point of play. Therefore, we have filled in bidding to get South to be declarer at six spades."

Jim: "Jeff points out that,

should lead a small spade from dummy at trick two and play his seven-spot if East follows with the deuce.

THE WELL CHILD®

Check All Safety Factors Before Buying Toy Tunnel

By WAYNE G. BRANDSTADT, M.D.

Toy tunnels sold by four manufacturers under such names as "Batman Cave Tunnel," "Tun-L-Fun" and
"Funny Tunnel" have been ordered off the market by the Food and Drug Administration. The tunnels, about the East hand but will cost an overtrick if West holds the singleton king."

Oswald: "This is an example of a simple safety play. In rubber bridge, it would be silly indeed to risk
a slam in an effort to pick up an extra trick. Of course, if South were in seven spades, he would have to try to make seven. It is really silly to give up and take down one just to guard against going down two."

Jim: "He points out that at match point duplicate, if you felt that everyone would be in six spades, then you should not take the safety play."

Oswald: "He is right about that but anyone who believes that all declarers in a duplicate game should reach six spades with these cards is living in a dream world. So, even in duplicate play, this safety play should be made."

Sometime around midnight Edward Kennedy's car with Mary Jo Kopechne as a passenger plunged off the narrow bridge on Chappaquiddick Island (1). Kennedy, uncertain how he escaped from the car, unsuccessfully sought to free Miss Kopechne before returning to the Chappaquiddick cottage (2), from where he returned to Edgartown. Ferry attendants say he did not use the ferry. The following morning, two young fishermen spotted the half-submerged car (3). Kennedy and two companions crossed by ferry from Edgartown to the Chappaquiddick dock (4) where a ferry attendant, about 9:45 a.m., asked if they had heard about the accident. Kennedy returned immediately to Edgartown and went to the police.

Metaphysicists Predict Age of Aetherius

By TOM TIEDE
NEA Staff Correspondent

DETROIT—(NEA)—Well, man may have reached the moon but that's as far as he's going in space. The rest of the planets are off-limits to earthlings.

Sure they are.

Just ask Edna Spencer who directs the local chapter of the Aetherius Society, a "worldwide metaphysical study group." She and her peers insist that because mankind is basically evil, as well as socially vulgar, the beings that regulate the solar system have banned us from interplanetary travel.

And... well, let Edna Spencer explain it:

"This may sound funny to you, but we (members of the Aetherius Society) believe that the solar system is being run by good, decent, flesh-and-blood beings who represent the various planets. Their headquarters is on Venus.

"The leader of the government is the Master of Aetherius. There are other leaders, too—Jesus is one, Buddha is another. We think these men are still alive and are helping to regulate the system our world is in.

"Anyway, because the leaders are good, they have outlawed man from setting foot on other planets. They don't think man is deserving. And unless man changes he is just not going to be allowed anywhere in space travel."

Fortunately, Miss Spencer adds, man does seem to be changing a wee bit. She says that for years (19 million to be exact) the solar folks were so against man they wouldn't even allow him to the moon. In fact, saucers were kept there to guard against earth intrusion. Then, mercifully, they lifted alerting, but few have been alerted. Edna Spencer is one of probably not more than 1,000 dues-paying converts.

King and Miss Spencer insist the society membership would be larger, except, this mandate a few years ago—perhaps, as Miss Spencer feels, because earthlings have shown at least some small improvements in recent years.

But man will have to do much, much better in the future if he wants to expand his rocketry horizons. According to Aetherius Society beliefs, which reportedly came in the form of communiques from Venus, man must:

1. End nuclear experimentation.
2. End war.
3. End monetary systems.
4. Live as decent human beings.
5. Believe in solar government.

"Remember this," says Miss Spencer, "If the Master of Aetherius wanted to, he could force us to comply with these points. But that's not the way he operates. He is against forcing the solar beliefs on mankind; he'd rather mankind accept this knowledge freely and willingly. And that's what the Aetherius Society is for—to convince man to accept this knowledge."

According to Miss Spencer, the Aetherius Society was formed in 1954 when the founder, George King of Los Angeles, a devotee of Yoga, "heard a physical voice one day." The voice allegedly was that of the Master of Aetherius telling King he was to alert earth of the solar government.

Since then King has been

"folks are timid." They feel many people are sympathetic to the society, but most do not want to join and risk public embarrassment.

"After all," Miss Spencer explains, "our beliefs are quite bold."

To be sure, Aetherius believes life exists on all other planets. Flying saucers are real. And individuals in advanced civilizations can live to be thousands of years old ("Jesus Christ is at least 2,000, you know").

Moreover, the society feels that the most important science on earth is the science of shape. Rectangles, squares, circles—they all give off and receive energy, so the argument goes, and energy is a form of immortality.

Also, Aetherians are convinced that people from other planets live here on earth, from time to time. Since they look like man, they only have to learn from local habits and language, which, for master brains, is simple.

And... uh, Edna Spencer can tell the rest:

"One day, soon maybe, but I can't say exactly, a leader from the solar system will make himself known here on earth. We have already been informed that this is to be. The message we got from Venus was that 'he will stand tall among men and will have a shiny countenance.'"

"His magic, of course, will be great. And he'll meet our leaders and great scientists. And they'll recognize him for what he is. And then, I hope and pray, mankind will finally understand—and after all these years (all 19 million) we'll at least be allowed to go to the other worlds."

Naming of Moon Day Causes Feud

By JOHN BECKLER
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Apollo 11 moon travelers may have their feet back on the ground but it looks as if it will be a long time before Congress gets out of orbit.

Having showed up nearly 300 strong at Cape Kennedy to help launch the moon mission, the senators and representatives are now busy and resolutions commemorating the event.

Rep. Dante Fascell, D-Fla., was the first to propose that July 20, the day Neil A. Armstrong and Edwin E. Aldrin stepped on the moon, be declared a national holiday to be called Lunar Landing Day.

That name could lead to the only controversy over the legislation. For other bills now have been introduced saying it should be called Moon Day, National Man in Space Day, Space Exploration Day, and Manned Lunar Landing Day.

Rep. Robert Price, R-Tex., thinks one day is not enough to honor the astronauts and their achievement. His bill would make the third week in July National Man in Space Week.

Rep. Roman C. Pucinski, D-Ill., has called for the establishment of a Moon Landing Commission to plan and erect a monument to the event in Washington.

Rep. Louis Frey Jr., R-Fla., and a dozen colleagues, want an Astronauts Memorial Commission created to build a memorial at the Kennedy Space Center in Florida.

Rep. Donald G. Brozman, R-Colo., has introduced a bill to have a permanent display of rocks from the moon mounted in the Rotunda of the Capitol.

The fantastic flight of Armstrong, Aldrin and Michael Collins has touched off an equally fantastic flight of oratory in the hall of Congress.

Besides singing paeans of praise for the astronauts and the men who planned and directed the mission, members have hailed the contributions of Copernicus, Galileo and Newton and modestly reminded the nation that none of it could have happened if Congress, in its wisdom, had not provided the money.

The only critical note has been sounded by Rep. L. Mendel Rivers, D-S.C. "I have not seen enough credit assigned to the help of Almighty God in getting these men onto the moon," said Rivers. "Somebody has overlooked that."

Congressional rejoicing should reach its peak at a joint session of the House and Senate at which the three astronauts will appear after Congress returns from its August vacation.

Overdue Barge Arrives

LITTLE ROCK (AP)—A homemade barge that left Morrilton Sunday with about 12 men aboard made it into Little Rock about 2 a.m. today with three persons aboard. The others returned to Morrilton.

Virgil Wingo of Morrilton, one of those who returned to Morrilton, said the barge experienced motor trouble and that caused the delay.

The group left Morrilton about 7 a.m. Sunday en route to New Orleans. It was due in Little Rock about 2 p.m. Sunday.

Joggers Can Graduate To Joy of Group Hiking

By JIM CROSSLEY

A bundled sleeping bag over one shoulder... a blanket roll holding everything else over the other... a guitar...

Young people thus accoutred sometimes are sighted in our cities and they are reminders that the lightly laden wanderer still has a way to escape, however briefly, the clutches of possessions and responsibilities.

This little metropolitan vignette should have special relationship to those fortunate people who have been able to take up jogging for their health.

Jogging is a great body builder. A conscientious, experienced jogger is ready to graduate to one of the elite recreational activities, hiking.

There's much to recommend this age-old activity, undergoing a revival, incidentally. It is inexpensive, healthy and stimulating. It is a perfect mixer for other outdoor hobbies such as biology, bird-watching or rock-hunting.

Hikers are out to enjoy themselves rather than keep fit because they were fit to begin with.

"Hiking just doesn't appeal to fat people," says Ruby Smith in an interview. She should know because she is president of the Genesee Valley Hiking Club in Rochester, N.Y. It was founded in 1925 and celebrated its 1,000th hike in 1952.

Hiking is a group sport and not a lonely one like jogging.

"We talk all the time," says Miss Smith. "Club members are so interesting and there's always something along the way to talk about."

For the novice wishing to risk a blister trying the sport, most difficult hurdle is finding a place to hike (unless he happens to live near the 13-state, 2,000-mile Appalachian Trail in the East or the 3,300-mile Pacific Crest Trail).

By comparison, outfitting with proper equipment is easy.

Even the most strenuous sub-species of hiking called "backpacking" requires little in equipment beyond a willingness to be spartan in sacrificing weight in the kit. Only such ingenuity as cutting the handle of a toothbrush down to a stub—or using a thin slab of plastic foam under the sleeping bag instead of a heavier inflatable mattress is necessary.

Club hikes of a day's duration require only comfortable shoes and clothing and a few precautionary items such as compass, flashlight, matches and as little weight in camera equipment and binoculars as self-control permits.

Even the majority of long-distance backpackers on the Appalachian Trail save themselves from becoming dry horses by spending their nights in nearby hotels or lodging houses. They save the weight necessary to use the shelters and lean-tos that are found every 7 or 8 miles on most of the route.

Obviously, quiet strolls along deserted country roads are a thing of the past. For protection from motor cars, trails designed for hiking are a necessity.

How to find them?

Here's the best suggestion: ask for information about hiking clubs near your home by writing Appalachian Trail Conference, 1718 N. St. NW, Washington, D.C. 20036.

The conference is made up of 25 to 30 hiking clubs, the ones who share the responsibility of maintaining this great trail. In addition, it acts as a clearing house for hiking information all over the country.

It can open the way to an absorbing new hobby.

SHOWBEAT

By DICK KLEINER
Hollywood Correspondent

HOLLYWOOD — (NEA) — Hollywood can be a cruel place. I was there when they ripped off George DeNormand's boutonniere.

This heartless act took place on the set of My Three Sons. It should have been a happy occasion. Fred MacMurray and Beverly Garland were getting married.

The whole Douglas family was there—Don Grady was his father's best man and the kid brothers were watching and Tina Cole cried and William Demarest put on his best sour face. And Beverly made a lovely bride, as she came down the aisle.

That was the problem, that coming-down-the-aisle routine. The playback played back the wedding march, and Beverly walked down with the slow step all brides can manage automatically. She was accompanied by George DeNormand, who was playing her uncle, there for the sole purpose of giving the bride away. It was a silent bit, and DeNormand was cast because he looked distinguished.

But he couldn't manage the slow walk. He would trip, or stumble, or falter. "Cut," said director Fred DeCordova.

And they would try again. Finally, they took one of the other distinguished-looking extras—Tony Regan—and tried him. He got the walk on his first attempt.

It was then that the assistant director went over to where DeNormand was sitting—he had traded places with Regan—and stripped him of his boutonniere. He pinned it on Regan.

When you watch this show next fall on CBS, see if you can spot the first uncle. He'll be sitting in the third row, looking sheepish. There will be no flower in his lapel.

The addition of Miss Garland as MacMurray's wife, and a little girl as her daughter, is not leading to a corresponding subtraction in the cast. Everybody else in the My Three Sons family stays, too.

"We've finally got a larger cast than Peyton Place," says producer Edmund Hartmann. "We're not dropping anybody—we're just getting a wider lens."

Hartmann, like everybody else connected with the show, had dropped in to watch the wedding. After all, when a show has been going for 10 years and the star finally takes a bride, it's an event.

"Beverly is right for him," one of the crew said. She's happy about it, too. She's one of Hollywood's nicest ladies and a capable actress, and it's good to see her fitting into such a successful show. She thinks she's very lucky.

"So many girls tried out for it," she says. "I was afraid all the heavy dramatic things I'd done would hurt my chances. When I met Fred MacMurray, I told him it was really my story—I'd married a widower with children, I raised them and now I'm a grandmother."

Beverly and her real husband, Fillmore Crank, have two of their own, too. I wondered whether that was in the cards for her and her television husband.

"Maybe later," she said. "Fred says he did the new-father shtick when Don Grady had triplets last year."

Fred's real wife, June Haver, and their twin daughters were on the set for the wedding. June said she had "mixed emotions" watching her husband marry another woman, "but at least I'm glad she's a blonde."

When the minister pronounced the words that tied the knot and Fred kissed Beverly, he waited until DeCordova said "Cut" and then quickly turned to June and said, "Just acting, June—you know how it is."

'Alley Oop' and Other Popular NEA Comics Help Navajo Indian Students Learn English

Navajo children at Intermountain Indian School in Brigham City, Utah, are learning English as a second language with the help of a comic page and some of his other comic page friends.

"Alley Oop," which is a popular feature in (NAME NEWSPAPER) and which for 36 years has appeared in the comic pages of hundreds of daily and Sunday newspapers throughout the country, is being employed by teacher Glen D. Johnson in an audio-visual teaching program.

Using glossy proofs and original drawings provided by Newspaper Enterprise Association and artist V. T. Hamlin, Johnson stimulates interest in English among the young Navajos.

For example, he takes several familiar "Alley Oop" characters and uses them in simple sentences to teach the comparative and superlative forms of adjectives, past tense of verbs, and plurals.

A lesson plan utilizing a recent continuity daily story stated:

"Alley Oop is tall. Oola is beautiful. The Pharaoh is powerful. Pupils then gave the comparative and superlative forms.

Johnson told NEA's editors:

"Your daily newspaper strip, 'Alley Oop,' has a very good story line, dialogue, interesting characters as well as depth. The last is important as I want students to express in their own words what a character is doing in everyday life."

Using overhead projections of transparencies made from "Alley Oop," Johnson asks his students questions that will involve them in the story. Then he has them re-

PREHISTORIC MAN OF THE COMIC STRIPS helps modern Navajo students learn English. "Alley Oop" became a teaching aid at the Intermountain Indian School, Brigham City, Utah, a boarding school with an enrollment of more than 2,000 Navajo youngsters over the age of 12. Most come to the school speaking little or no English, and language laboratory instructors have found comic strips to be the motivating force for students to learn their "second language." Students are shown above listening to an "Alley Oop" script and looking at a Sunday "Oop" page on the bulletin board.

peat in English questions and answers.

A tape gives them correct answers in proper English sentences.

Johnson has also come up with a song for the children to sing in English about "Alley Oop."

About 2,150 Navajo children over 12 years old attend the coeducational Intermountain School, a boarding school conducted by the Bureau of Indian Affairs of the U. S. Department of the Interior.

Johnson told Thomas E.

Peoples, comic art director of NEA, that he "can still recall with fond memories visiting the local paper as a youngster and being allowed to read the glossy proofs of 'Alley Oop' far in advance of their publication," adding:

"If my students are able to learn as well as enjoy 'Alley Oop' half as much as I did, this project will be very successful."

Peoples commented that "Alley Oop" is one of the most popular and successful comic strips appearing in nearly 800 daily and Sunday newspapers.

Because of his success with the "Alley Oop" venture, Johnson has also requested sequences of "Captain Easy," "Up Anchor!" and two former NEA comics, "Red Ryder" and "Ben Casey."

"Captain Easy" is an adventure strip which blends accurate geography and history into the script. "Up Anchor!" a new comic on sailing and boating, includes a section on navigation and nautical history.

Urban League Strikes at Nixon

WASHINGTON (AP) — The executive director of the National Urban League today accused the Nixon administration of "moving backwards to an age of indifference and repression" on human rights.

Citing a long list of recent federal actions in the urban affairs area, Whitney M. Young Jr. asked whether they weren't "a step backward to the time when racial concentration camps were established for Japanese Americans during World War II."

"The administration... encourages the whole mood of backlash that is leading to elections of unqualified candidates who campaign under the tattered banner of 'law and order,' using subtle appeals to racism," he said in a keynote speech prepared for the League's 59th annual conference here.

Young's speech came as several Negro congressmen claimed Nixon has abdicated his responsibilities to the nation's minorities. "Nothing short of individual concern can prevent total repression of minorities," said Rep. William Clay, D-Mo.

El Salvador Claims It Is Bombed

SAN SALVADOR (AP) — El Salvador claims Honduran planes bombed five towns on the Salvadoran border Sunday, and Honduras says Salvadoran troops have routed more than 25,000 Honduran civilians from their homes.

The charges were exchanged Sunday as mediators in Washington tried to restore peace between the two Central American neighbors. Each side has accused the other of violating a cease-fire that went into effect at midnight July 18.

A diplomat in Washington said Salvadoran Foreign Minister Francisco J. Guerrero had rejected pressure from the Organization of American States to withdraw Salvadoran troops who invaded Honduras two weeks ago.

The diplomat said Guerrero agrees with the OAS that Salvador should return the occupied territory to Honduras but still insists on guarantees for the safety of the 275,000 Salvadorans living in Honduras before the troops pull out.

Dies in Race Rioting at Marine Base

CAMP LEJEUNE, N.C. (AP) — Cpl. Edward Bankston, 20, has died of injuries suffered in an outbreak of racial violence at this U.S. Marine base.

Bankston, of Picayune, Miss., was one of 14 white Marines beaten by Negro and Puerto Rican fellow servicemen July 20. A Marine Corps spokesman said he died of a skull fracture Sunday in the Naval hospital at Portsmouth, Va.

A New York congressman who visited the sprawling Marine base after the incident has said he will ask Congress to investigate the "infiltration of some military installations" by persons "who engage in acts of subversion which I regard as detrimental to national security."

Rep. Mario Biaggi, D-N.Y., who made the statement Saturday, was the first person to publicly report the violence at Camp Lejeune.

U.S. to Take Big Load of Welfare

SEATTLE (AP) — The Nixon administration plans to have the federal government assume a greater share of welfare costs and hand over some of its tax revenues to the states, Vice President Spiro T. Agnew said today.

"Although neither proposal has been finally approved, I offer you these assurances," Agnew said in an address prepared for the opening session of the annual Western Governors' Conference.

The vice president said the administration's revenue sharing plan will "reward the active state government," lending credence to reports that the proposed allocation of funds would be based on population plus tax effort.

This formula is a compromise between one based on popula-

"Milwaukee Phil" Alderisio and charged him with conspiring to defraud a bank.

FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover said the arrest was "a blow to the upper echelon leadership of La Cosa Nostra."

Alderisio, 57, was arrested by the FBI Sunday after 20 agents surrounded his home in suburban Riverside. Bond was set at $100,000.

A sealed, 21-count indictment returned Friday charged that Alderisio conspired with three other men, named but not charged, to defraud the Parkway Bank of suburban Harwood Heights of $79,935 during May 1965.

The indictment, which culminated a four-year FBI investigation, charged Alderisio set up fake and insufficient collateral for home-improvement loans.

Our Daily Bread

Sliced Thin by The Editor
Alex. H. Washburn
'The Back 40' —
and How It Got That Way

Your editor arose early today—5 a.m.—and was greeted by a foggy, drippy morning, reminding him of farm-boy days back in the mountains of northeastern Pennsylvania.

It reminded him, too, of the whimsy with which he describes the miniature bird refuge behind his house — "The Back 40," which farmers understand but about which city folks are always asking: "Where did you get the name?"

"The Back 40" isn't a name—it's a farm institution. And today I am going to tell you about it.

We lived on a mountaintop farm from the first of May to the first of October, and the opening chore for the three Washburn boys and the farmer's son at 5 a.m. each day was to go up the mountain and bring in the milk cows. Our collie dog went along, of course, and you may wonder why a dog needed the backing of four boys. The truth is we had two kinds of milk cows, Jersey and Guernsey. The Jersey is a good milk-er and a docile trail animal. The Guernsey gives even richer milk but she's a mean trail hand. Sometimes a Guernsey would hook the dog and throw him over the lane fence, then scatter us boys. So we marched out every morning as an army prepared for battle.

Up the lane leading to the mountain top was a three-way fork, and this always presented a moment of truth: Were the cows in the hill-top pasture dead ahead, in the swamp down the lane to the right—or in "The Back 40" beyond the left turn?

We knew the herd's preferences on any given day. The weather being average you would expect to find the cows in the hill-top pasture dead ahead. On a hot day the swamp was a good guess—but on a foggy drizzly morning like today they were bound to be holed up in "The Back 40."

If we were energetic that morning we'd go see for ourselves; but most mornings were lazy mornings, and we'd send the dog out to scout—waiting for his bark on location, then going to his aid against the warlike Guernsey battalion.

This morning, I say, the cows would in all probability be holed up in "The Back 40." That, I should tell you, is the farm's forgotten field . . . remote and completely uncultivated, with its fences overgrown by underbrush and tree seedlings threatening to take over the dwindling open space.

"The Back 40" was a disgrace in a countryside which judged the worth of its farmers by the neatness with which they kept their fences free of brush and maintained tillable acreage at the maximum.

But "The Back 40" had the virtue of being out of sight from passersby, like a man's secret sin—and still more like a secret sin, since it was never wholly out of mind.

It was a comfortable, romantic hideaway, remembered by man and animals, too.

It would have been the devil's own job to have cleaned up "The Back 40" for row-crop cultivation. We never did.

City folks don't fool me a bit. The reason they left the farm was to get out of doing some back-breaking labor.

But if the government ever issued an ultimatum that all "The Back 40s" of America had to be cleaned up, what farmers there are left would be coming to town and telling us curbstone philosophers: "Move over—you!"

Confidence Vote Running for Kennedy

By JOSEPH E. MOHBAT
Associated Press Writer
HYANNIS PORT, Mass. (AP) — Sen. Edward M. Kennedy is confining his political ambitions to the U.S. Senate—not the presidency—as he awaits what is shaping up as a vote of confidence by the people of Massachusetts, sources close to him say.

For the moment, these sources say, Kennedy has put out of his mind any ambitions he might have harbored for the 1972 Democratic presidential nomination.

As he remains in seclusion here, inundated by thousands of telegrams in response to Friday night's dramatic television-radio appeal, Kennedy is described by those who have seen him as irritated over press speculation about what the death of Mary Joe Kopechne and his actions following it mean to his presidential prospects.

These reports of Kennedy's mood are lent credibility by an interview last May in which he expressed serious doubts about whether to seek the presidency in 1972 or ever.

The senator pleaded guilty last Friday to a charge of leaving the scene of a fatal accident and received a suspended two-month sentence. He did not re-ogot the accident until more than nine hours after his car plunged off a bridge and Miss Kopechne drowned.

Friday evening, in a telecast and broadcast addressed to the people of Massachusetts, Sen. Kennedy said, "I regard as indefensible the fact that I did not report the accident to the police immediately."

He explained, "I was overcome—I am frank to say, by a jumble of emotion—grief, fear, doubt, torture, panic, confusion, exhaustion and shock."

He asked his constituents to express their opinions, saying he would consider resigning from the Senate unless they convinced him he should stay in office.

So far the response of Massachusetts residents is reported to be overwhelmingly in favor of his continuing as senator.

About 15 or 20 demonstrators carrying signs saying: "Can you buy justice?" and "Tell the truth Ted" staged a parade near his home Sunday and were

7th Coed Is Slain in Area Around Eastern Michigan University

By KARL MANTYLA
Associated Press Writer
YPSILANTI, Mich. (AP) — Stymied authorities today hunted the stranger of an 18-year-old coed whose beaten, nude body was found in the area where six other young women have been slain.

"All I know is I've got seven unsolved murders," said Sheriff Douglas J. Harvey of Washtenaw County.

He said the killing of Karen Sue Belneman, a freshman at Eastern Michigan University, bore "many similarities" to six other slayings in Ypsilanti and the neighboring college town of Ann Arbor within the past two years.

But authorities reported "no hot leads" toward the killer—or killers.

Dr. Robert C. Hendrix, rated the foremost pathologist in the area, was called back from a northern Michigan trip Sunday to examine the body of Miss Belneman.

He reported that the pretty brown-haired girl was strangled and beaten "sometime Wednesday."

He said a full autopsy would be conducted later to determine whether she had been sexually assaulted and to establish a more precise time of death.

Prosecutor William F. Delhey of Washtenaw County said the slaying of Miss Belneman "would appear to be sexually motivated."

UN Observer Dies in Suez Fighting

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Israeli artillery fire was blamed today for the death of the first U.N. observer killed in the Suez Canal fighting.

The observer, Swedish Maj. Bo Plane, 37, was killed Sunday during a heavy artillery duel between Israeli and Egyptian forces near Port Suez, at the southern end of the canal.

Plane was one of 47 observers on the Egyptian side, and it was assumed that an Israeli shell killed him.

A U.N. spokesman said Secretary General U Thant viewed the observer's death "very seriously" but had not decided yet whether to recommend withdrawal of the 91 other observers, stationed at eight posts on each side of the 103-mile waterway.

Thant said three weeks ago that the observers had become "defenseless targets in a shooting gallery." He said that if fighting continued along the canal he might be forced to withdraw them.

Egypt meanwhile flexed its renewed air might by striking Sunday at Israeli positions near the northern end of the canal. It was the first time since the 1967 war that the Egyptian planes struck first. Instead of responding to Israeli attack as they did twice last week. This time, the Israelis admitted that their planes did not challenge the raiders.

An Israeli spokesman said the Egyptians hit three positions, killing one Israeli soldier and wounding six. He gave no explanation for why the Israeli jets did not challenge the Egyptians.

Viet Cong Take Toll of Aircraft

By RICHARD H. PYLE
Associated Press Writer
SAIGON (AP) — The United States suffered heavy aircraft losses in the Vietnam war Sunday. The Viet Cong shot down a big helicopter that was evacuating a wounded U.S. Marine and a wounded prisoner from a battlefield Sunday, and a B52 bomber crashed as it took off from Guam to bomb Vietnam.

All 10 men aboard the CH46 helicopter—nine Americans and the prisoner—were killed when it crashed in the Que Son mountains 25 miles southwest of Da Nang after machine-gun fire hit it.

The six-man crew of the B52 and two others aboard were declared missing after the big bomber crashed and burned at the end of a runway at Andersen Air Force Base. It was taking off for Vietnam with a full load of bombs.

In the ground war, the U.S. and South Vietnamese commands reported scattered clashes in which 105 enemy troops were killed and at least 12 enemy shellings, during the night, but the general lull in enemy-initiated actions continued in its sixth week.

Spokesmen at Da Nang said the downed helicopter carried a crew of five Marines, a wounded Marine rifleman, the wounded prisoner, a U.S. Marine guarding him, and two Navy medics.

They said the twin-rotor, 50-foot helicopter had just taken off from a jungle landing pad and was headed for a hospital when it was shot down.

The prisoner had been captured in a clash shortly before. Military sources said such prisoners usually are flown back to headquarters for interrogation as soon as possible, particularly when no interpreter is available in the area.

Witnesses to the B52 crash said they heard no explosion before the plane went down but that flames from the burning bomber could be seen for miles. A spokesman for the Strategic Air Command said the crew was from Pease Air Force Base, in New Hampshire, and was on temporary duty with the 4133rd Bomb Wing.

The helicopter was the 2,879th reported lost during the war. The B52 was the ninth of America's biggest bombers to become a casualty since they entered the war in 1965. All nine were lost in airborne collisions or in landing or takeoff accidents.

More than 750 men of the U.S. 9th Infantry Division were packing to leave Wednesday by plane for Hawaii in the continuing withdrawal of American troops. This group is the 4th Battalion, 39th Infantry Regiment, commanded by Maj. Ronald W. Crooks of Albany, Calif.

Storm Goes Through Arkansas

By THE ASSOCIATE PRESS

Thunderstorms, together with high winds, swept through Arkansas Sunday evening, uprooting trees and damaging power lines.

The only injuries reported were at Little Rock, where six persons were cut by flying glass when winds shattered a window at a drive-in restaurant. All were treated at a Little Rock hospital and released.

The Little Rock Street Department received 68 reports of fallen trees or limbs blocking streets.

Much of the west side of Little Rock was still without power Sunday night.

The storm, which moved from the northwest portion of the state southeastwards, first hit at Jacksonville where power lines were down and trees uprooted.

Similar damage was reported of Little Rock at Stuttgart and DeWitt.

Damage to Arkansas Power & Light Co. facilities in the Little Rock area was described as major. Officials were unable to give a damage estimate, but said that it was the "worst wind damage in years."

All available crews worked throughout the night in Little Rock, and by early today all major circuits had been restored. Some customers, however, were still without service this morning.

Additional crews were called in from Jacksonville, Conway, Harrisburg, Searcy, Russellville, Crossett, Monticello, Pine bluff, McGehee, Newport, Batesville and Morrilton to aid in restoring individual service.

The power interruptions were from a myriad of causes—trans-formers hit by lightning, fuses blown, but the major problem was trees and limbs being blown

Say Surtax No Inflation Stopper

By JACK BELL
WASHINGTON (AP) — Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield of Montana suggested today that the 10 per cent income surtax may die if the Senate fails to act by Thursday on a new extension of the payroll withholding to meet the levy on individual taxpayers.

"If that happens, I suppose I'll get the blame for it," Mansfield said. He indicated he is willing to accept this as part of his effort to force action on tax reforms. Congress previously extended the withholding through July 31.

Thereform movement got a blow Sunday from Chairman Russell B. Long, D-La., of the Senate Finance committee, when he predicted the Senate will not accept action by a

Tense Hour for Nixon in Thailand

By FRANK CORMIER
Associated Press Writer
BANGKOK (AP) — President Nixon's visit to Thailand got off to an uneasy start today with two security scares after a rain-soaked arrival.

One man threw what appeared to be an empty bottle at Nixon and his King Bhumibol. Police arrested him and said he was mentally disturbed, with a previous record.

Another man was arrested nearby with a pistol in his belt. But he turned out to be an army officer on leave from southern Thailand. He was released.

The bottle thrower was about 50 yards from Nixon and the king as they arrived at the Phra Praviton in downtown Bangkok for the President to receive the keys to the city. Neither Nixon nor the king seemed aware of the incident.

The army officer was arrested across the street after Nixon and the king entered the pavilion.

Nixon showed no sign of concern as he went through the ceremonies and extended to Thailand reassurance about his recent accent on self-help as a necessity for Asian states.

"The United States will stand proudly with Thailand against those who might threaten from abroad or within," Nixon told his hosts.

Nixon had arrived in Thailand in a steady drizzle and without his raincoat on, but he and King Bhumibol manfully went through 10 minutes of open-air ceremonies at the airport without showing any discomfort.

"He was a reasonably wet president," said one of the ambassadors in the "Water Recalling 1968." "I thought he did very well indeed."

Mrs. Nixon and Queen Sirikit escaped the rain in a small pavilion. But their husbands stayed out for the playing of the national anthems and a review of the honor guard.

The rain slackened just as Nixon and the king entered the airport lounge to shake hands with government officials and the diplomatic corps. The Nixons and the royal couple appeared to be joking about the weather and greeted each person warmly as they shook hands.

The rain slackened just as Nixon and the king entered the weather and greeted each person warmly as they shook hands.

The airport was tightly guarded but festive despite the weather, with hundreds of schoolchildren on hand from the American community along with the leaders of Thailand's military government.

The teen-agers held up bright signs in psychedelic lettering saying, "Welcome Dick!" They included one little league baseball team in blue peaked caps and baggy gray flannel uniforms.

After a 22-hour visit to Jakarta during which he and Indonesian President Suharto talked about U.S. economic aid for the island nation's development and the likely situation in Southeast Asia after the Vietnam War. And before his arrival in the Indonesian capital, Nixon hinted that neutralist Indonesia could also count on American help should it face attack from Communist China's growing nuclear arsenal.

Panel Seeks Peace for Forrest City

MORRILTON, Ark. (AP) — A biracial panel of three persons has been appointed by Gov. Winthrop Rockefeller to investigate causes of racial tension at Forrest City.

Rockefeller, in announcing formation of the panel Saturday, indicated he hoped the panel could find solutions that would lead to the curtailment of plans by Negroes to hold a march from West Memphis to the state Capitol in late August.

The governor said he had talked with groups of businessmen and Negroes and that they had encouraged him to act as a mediator in the dispute between whites and blacks at Forrest City.
